

As one of the few people left who is stubborn enough to keep doing taxes by hand, I find it penny-wise but pound-foolish to put only one copy of the 1040 form in the CT tax booklet, as they started doing a couple years ago; many people who need the booklet just take 2 copies of it to get the second form.

Also, it would help if a few government people actually tested the booklet themselves so they could catch mistakes like erroneous page references (when the table that's supposed to be on page 26 isn't there) and confusing terminology, which indicate great disdain for taxpayers.

Blanche Boucher
Coventry